PREFACE TO THE FIRST EDITION

Cruise tourism has become a key economic factor in various countries around the world since it enables the host country to receive the much needed foreign currency and international visitors. Repeat tourism is one of the key benefits of cruise tourism and it is a well known fact that cruise tourists are more likely to come back to the same country in the near future and this ultimately leads to more foreign currency coming into the host country's national financial system. The value of cruise ships to the global economy keeps increasing on a regular basis. Another key benefit of cruise tourism is that more jobs are created in various sectors of an economy such as the retail, hospitality, hotel, telecommunications, transport, energy and so on since international tourists spend their foreign currency buying local products and services. Trains have become one of the most preferred form of transport to use every day to commute in most towns, cities and or countries. It can be academically argued that the economic and societal development of a country is generally interrelated with the increasing popularity of trains amongst commuters from different geographical locations of a country. The current pace of technological advancement in the global railway sector is quite extensive while on the other hand the current manufacturing of trains is placing more emphasis towards reliable, affordable and eco-friendly production processes and finished products (trains). Railway tourism has blossomed in many countries due to the fact that some of the modern structural designs of trains are enabling train operators to offer bedroom accommodation, restaurant, bathroom, lounge, bar, conference meeting rooms, café, double deck large window views and many other customer memorable experiences. The advantage of railway tourism is that it allows passengers or tourists to have the opportunity to travel to other places where there are fun tourist attraction sites. Railway tourism is mostly popular in developed nations and one of the key reasons behind this general fact is that in developed nations the railway networks (train stations or railway tracks) adopted modern technology that can easily accommodate eco-smart high speed trains. While on the other hand in poor developing nations the railway networks are under developed or in a poor state of condition therefore this makes railway tourism to be considered as unattractive to investors. Some of the leading global financial institutions are currently offering adequate financial resources to developing nations in order to help them reconstruct or implement new modern technology railway networks that will help them transport both passengers and freight in an affordable, reliable and eco-smart manner. The airport and aviation industry is growing on a yearly basis due to the creation of new tourist destinations by various countries around the world that are aiming to boost their international tourist arrival rates. Travel destinations located in North America, the European Union, Northern/Western Europe, the Middle East, Asia, Oceania, South America and Africa have become popular tourist routes leading to various airports management companies taking action to invest more of their scarce financial resources towards the reconstruction of their airport facilities. While on the other hand various airlines are now using more large aircrafts to carry more passengers in these popular tourist routes. Many airports and airlines tend to receive significant numbers of domestic/global travelers during holiday time periods therefore ‘continuous innovation’ and ‘good operations management’ have become critical in order to be able to offer travelers memorable customer experiences whilst maximizing profits and loyalty. Today it is unquestionable that nations such as the United States of America, Republic of Cyprus, Belgium, Canada, United Kingdom, India, Canada, France, Argentina, The Netherlands, Kenya, Latvia, Germany, Austria, Chile, Hashemite Kingdom of Jordan, Sweden, Israel, South Africa, Kingdom of Saudi Arabia, State of Qatar, Zambia, Thailand, Tanzania, Liberia, United Arab Emirates, Singapore, Namibia, Norway, Mexico, the European Union Member States, Australia and New Zealand will continue to enjoy powerful nation brand statuses as a result of their visitor-friendly societies and tourism sector businesses that place more emphasis on increasing customer experience. Today various global airlines, cruise ships and luxury train organizations are now investing a lot of their scarce financial resources towards designing high quality customer-friendly products and building powerful corporate brands to maintain their competitive edge. Nowadays there is a strong interrelation between human rights, democracy, tourism and nation branding. Therefore, as a result of this interrelation many globally ranked top tourist destinations are now implementing business and community human rights protection programs or laws in order to continue to enjoy bigger economic benefits through tourism. This book specifically targeted people on the continents of Africa, North America, Latin America, Europe, Oceania, Middle East and Asia in order to provide them with basic knowledge about the following: (1) various popular cruise ships in the world, (2) the most amazing luxury and holiday trains in the world, (3) various popular global airlines and their modern aircrafts, (4) airports and aviation industry infrastructure development projects (through the use of amazing photographs) and so on. The main aim of this textbook is to educate readers that the airports and aviation industry has successfully managed to bring together people from different geographical locations for both personal and business purposes.

Chapter 1: Popular tourist destinations in Belgium, Zambia, Argentina & Republic of Cyprus

After reading this chapter you should be able to:

- Define the terms ‘blue economy’ and ‘international visitor’.
- Identify one of the most popular tourist attraction site in Belgium.
- Describe one of the most popular tourist attraction site in Zambia.
- List one of the most popular tourist attraction site in Argentina. Describe one of the most popular tourist attraction site in the Republic of Cyprus.

1.1 Introduction

Tourism marketing and advertising has become a critical ingredient towards the success of popular global tourism destinations. The way tourists perceive a holiday destination plays a crucial role in determining their intention to travel to that destination. Thus all marketing efforts by tourist destinations/national tourism authorities must place more emphasis on communicating their competitive advantages, recent developments and the sort of atmosphere visitors will experience when they travel there. Tourism marketing is now a big business globally and one of its unique advantage is the ability to attract repeat visitors and positive word-of-mouth advertising of the popular tourist destination. Generally it is critical for countries to implement ‘honest’ tourism marketing of their popular tourist destinations in order to avoid visitor disappointment when they come to those destinations to enjoy their holidays. ¹²“As well as being ambassadors for Australian tourism, many of Australia’s international visitors are return travelers who make several trips across their lifetime. For each new international visitor to Australia, there is a lifetime value in connection to the multiple trips they will make to Australia over the years.

Almost two thirds of all international visitors to Australia have visited before. While it may not be surprising that most visitors from New Zealand have been to Australia more than once (94 per cent of visitors in 2019), it may be surprising that eight in ten visitors from Singapore and seven in ten from Malaysia are also return visitors. In 2019, returning visitor from New Zealand had visited Australia 11 times on average, while returning visitors from Singapore and Malaysia has visited 7 and 6 times previously respectively. A higher proportion of U.S. visitors are first-time visitors to Australia (54% first time visitors) compared to many of Australia’s other key source markets. That said, while the share of repeat visitors from the U.S. is lower, those returning have visited four times before on average” (Tourism Research Australia cited in Deloitte Access Economics, 2021:45, <https://www2.deloitte.com/> cited in Rudolph Muteswa, 2023:96 in his famous book title ‘Amazing Global Tourist Destinations & Airlines’). The following section will discuss the definition of terms in-depth.

¹⁰According to Swoop Patagonia (2023) History. About the Cueva de las Manos. The cave art is located in the Cañón de Río Pinturas, a deep gorge with a river running centrally and archaeological sites on either side. These sites evidence pre European settlements of hunters since the tenth millennium BP, meaning they are of great importance for understanding prehistoric human habitats and the earliest settlements in South America. Detailed archaeological research of the area began in the late 1960s and has continued since. It has established that hunter ancestors used the canyon for protection and sustenance, and that the artwork represents original evidence about the hunters' culture and practices. Marking its significance, UNESCO declared World Heritage status of the caves in 1999. Paintings. Revealing the artistic traditions of the Patagonian hunters, the handprints are thought to have been created by liquid pigment being blown around a hand, whereby a hollow bone was used as a tube. This may be why most of the handprints are of left hands; the artists spraying paint with their right. As you travel the remote roads to the caves, you'll see the native animals such as guanacos and rheas depicted in the paintings, still common in the area today. In terms of composition, the vibrant colours were achieved by use of mineral pigments and the Calafate berry as ink, mixed with some kind of development, its economic, social and artistic evolution as well as the daily life of its people from the 3rd to the 18th c. A.D. and include Medieval pottery, tombstones, superb silver Byzantine era wares, weapons, crosses and coins. Legend has it that Richard the Lionheart - the King of England and leader of the 3rd Crusade - landed near Amathous on his way to the Holy Land and celebrated his marriage to Berengaria of Navarre in the castle's chapel in 1191, crowning her Queen of England. Archaeological investigation within the castle revealed that the current fortress was built over an Early Christian Basilica, a Middle Byzantine Monument and possibly the city's first Cathedral. The castle seems to have been much larger in its original form, and underwent many modifications during the 16th century so that it could be used in the defense of the town. In 1570 the Ottomans conquered the castle and used it as a garrison and jail. During the British Rule it functioned as a police station, and briefly as a place of detainment. Region: Lemesos Address: Richardou & Berengarias, near the Old Port¹⁴ (The official portal of the Department of Antiquities, Cyprus, <http://www.culture.gov.cy/da>). Many countries nowadays are enjoying the benefits of repeat visits by international tourists as a result of mastering the importance of ethical tourism marketing. In general countries such as the Belgium, Zambia and Argentina have successfully positioned their tourist destinations to be the best places to visit in the world since they offer cherishable lifetime memories and holiday experiences.

2.1 Introduction

¹⁵Tourism creates enormous opportunities towards promoting climate change friendly policies in a country. Today climate change has significantly boosted the ‘nature-based tourism sector’ since it helps to conserve the natural environment. ¹⁶“Nature-based tourism is in high demand, which not only increases the value placed on unspoiled nature and wildlife, it generates funds used for conservation” (World Bank Group, 2017:20, <https://documents1.worldbank.org/>). The prosperity of a nation can be strengthened by its tourism sector. Tourism generally helps to boost economic growth, employment creation and inter-cultural exchange amongst global societies. When international tourists arrive in a foreign country they bring new ideas, knowledge and culture/values from their country of origin and overtime they share these with the local people leading to the creation of a multi-cultural society and prolonged diplomatic relations. ¹⁷“Tourism can be an effective way to engage visitors in philanthropy. Often seeing a situation firsthand can change the way people empathize with those in need. In 2016, Americans gave more than

A growing number of businesses are providing philanthropic opportunities to their guests” (World Bank Group, 2017:6, <https://documents1.worldbank.org/>). The following section will discuss the definition of terms in-depth.

2.2 Definition of terms

“Blue Tourism is a sustainable alternative of the traditional tourism practices in coastal and maritime areas. It is typically a low impact activity focusing on the promotion of local communities and the conservation of natural resources,¹⁹ and is a sub-component of sustainable tourism. This contrasts with large-scale tourism characterized by beach resort tourism and international cruise tourism” (“World Bank. 2022. Blue Tourism in Islands and Small Tourism-Dependent Coastal States: Tools and Recovery Strategies”).²⁰“Destination (main destination of a trip): The main destination of a tourism trip is defined as the place visited that is central to the decision to take the trip. ²²“Vērmanes Garden Park is Riga's second oldest public park; the numerous benches are always occupied by Rigans and visitors to the city, the historic open-air stage features various concerts, and children have fun on the park's playground. Vērmanes Garden Park is situated in the very centre of the city, surrounded by Tērbatas, Elizabetes, Krišjāņa Barona and Merķeļa streets. Riga's second oldest park was created by donations in early 19th century. It was named after the wealthy widow Anna Gertrud Vērmāne (born Ebel, 1750.-1827), who had allocated a piece of land and a great sum of money for the park. Now a statue to the generous lady stands there. Vērmanes Garden Park features various sculptures - splendid four season fountain, majestic stone lions, a monument to the collector of Latvian folk songs - Krišjānis Barons, and a bronze dandy - a monument to Latvian artist and designer Kārlis Padegs - on the other side of the fence.

2.6 Conclusion

It can be concluded that the success story of many developing and developed nations can be mainly attributed to the consistent growth of the tourism sector. Climate change policies have unquestionably improved the way things are done in the global tourism sector to preserve the natural environment. It can be concluded that climate change has significantly boosted the ‘nature-based tourism’ sector. Interestingly, various nations have made significant investments towards ‘nature-based tourism’ such as the Latvia, Kenya and Liberia. One of the main benefits of tourism in a country is employment creation and inter-cultural exchange amongst global societies since they bring new ideas, knowledge and culture/values from their country of origin. Nowadays nations such as Latvia, Kenya and Liberia will continue to enjoy powerful nation brand statuses as a result of their visitor-friendly societies. It can also be concluded that Latvia, Kenya and Liberia have successfully positioned their tourist destinations to be the best places to visit in the world since they offer cherishable lifetime memories and holiday experiences.

- List one of the most popular tourist attraction site in the Hashemite Kingdom of Jordan.

- Describe one of the most popular tourist attraction site in Tanzania.

3.1 Introduction

²⁸Tourism is one of the main pillars that help to support innovation rates in a country. The inter-cultural exchanges that occur between the local people and foreign visitors’ generally helps to boost knowledge transfer into a society and overtime this may ultimately lead to high innovation rates in a country. ²⁹According to the World Bank Group (2017:21) Tourism is often an innovator of sustainable consumption and production, and climate change awareness. There are many examples of tourism resorts introducing wind and solar power, organic farming, and sustainable fisheries to communities that would not otherwise be exposed to these environmental advances (World Bank Group, 2017:6, <https://documents1.worldbank.org/>). Nowadays many countries have powerful nation brand statuses as a result of tourism since it helps them to set high economic development standards and financial investments in key sectors such as airports and transport (road, rail & air infrastructure), accommodation (hotels & lodges construction), retail (shopping malls construction), food & beverages (restaurants) and so on. ³⁰According to the World Bank Group (2017:6) Tourism sector development often results in improvements in basic infrastructure, such as airports, roads, water supply, energy, medical services, mobile phone networks, and health and safety services that are enjoyed by tourists and locals alike. In recent years, the World Bank has implemented tourism projects with infrastructure components in Ethiopia, Nepal, Georgia, Albania, Tanzania, Madagascar, Mozambique, and Senegal, among many other countries (World Bank Group, 2017:6, <https://documents1.worldbank.org/>). The modern-day global society is now conscious about global travel and tourism especially people based in developed nations (as they mainly travel for purposes of leisure, education, business & so on). In addition it is important to point-out the fact that today the global travelling trends are rapidly shifting in developing nations due to increased emigration rates (increased availability of foreign job opportunities) as more and more people are now travelling to foreign countries.

³¹Tourism is one of the key sources of labor in a country. Several countries around the world are now offering working holiday visas or permits to visitors and this has positively contributed towards the supply of scarce skills in various career fields. Skills shortages in a country negatively affect economic and social development thus tourism has become a key problem solving strategy to use towards initiatives to reduce skills shortages³² (Deloitte Access Economics, 2021:34, <https://www2.deloitte.com/> cited in Rudolph Muteswa, 2023:73 in his famous book title ‘Amazing Global Tourist Destinations & Airlines’). 3.6 Conclusion

It can be concluded that tourism helps to contribute towards innovation rates in a country since it helps to promote knowledge transfer and inter-cultural exchange. Today tourism now plays a crucial role towards strengthening a country’s nation brand status. One of the main benefits of tourism is that it helps to attract huge investments in key sectors such as airport construction and transport infrastructure. It can be concluded that skills shortages in a country can be alleviated by the growth of tourism in a country. It can be argued that the issuance of working holiday visas or permits to visitors by certain countries has played a key role in reducing skills shortages rates around the world. Generally there are various popular tourist destinations in countries such as the Hashemite Kingdom of Jordan, Sweden and Tanzania that continue to attract both domestic and international tourists.

4.1 Introduction

44454647⁴⁴ WHY TOURISM? Over the decades, tourism has experienced continued growth and deepening diversification to become one of the fastest growing economic sectors in the world. Modern tourism is closely linked to development and encompasses a growing number of new destinations. These dynamics have turned tourism into a key driver for socio-economic progress” (United Nations World Tourism Organization – UNWTO, 2023, <https://www.unwto.org/why-tourism>), “© UNWTO, 92844/02/24”. Every year the global tourism sector is diversifying since many countries are now placing more emphasis on the creation of new tourist destinations in order to attract international visitors for various reasons (United Nations World Tourism Organization – UNWTO, 2023, <https://www.unwto.org/why-tourism>). Tourism in general positively impacts a nation’s economy in various ways. The arrival of both domestic and international tourists to a popular tourist destination helps to generate foreign currency or local currency revenue to several industries such as: (1) hotel, motel, lodges bed & breakfast (B&B), (2) restaurants/cafes, (3) bars/pubs/night clubs, cinemas, (4) retail (shopping malls), (5) arts & culture (museums, religion centres, music, fashion & food cuisines), (6) transportation (airlines, local trains, sea cruises & bus/taxi services), (7) health (medical tourism – surgeries, cosmetics & so on), (8) nature & wildlife (garden parks and animal national parks/zoos) and many others since they provide essential services to tourists.⁴⁸“Tourism has a wide supply chain, which includes transport providers, cultural interpreters, accommodation, food and beverage suppliers, agriculture producers, energy and water supply, attractions, events, souvenirs, cultural heritage, arts and crafts, micro businesses, and construction and maintenance workers. Because of this, tourism has the potential to reach and benefit large numbers of people. Several studies have highlighted the multiplier effect of tourism in local economies, and its broad employment in middle and high income countries” (World Bank Group, 2017:16, <https://documents1.worldbank.org/>). Generally tourism helps to boost the nation brand of each and every country through marketing its beauty, pristine nature reserves, hospitality industry and airports. It is important to note that international trade and cooperation amongst countries is strongly influenced by tourism especially the treatment of foreigners by local people. The following section will discuss the definition of terms.

⁶⁰In general ‘tourism’ is the main beneficiary of the rise of the cruise ship, airline, railway and airport industries’ in a country, province, state, city or town. It is important to note the fact that on a yearly basis over 1 billion tourists are travelling to various tourist destinations and as a result enormous foreign currency revenue is generated by the host country. ⁶¹According to the International Civil Aviation Organization (ICAO) (2019:19-20) Aviation Supports Tourism. Air transport activities affect multiple sectors of the economy, especially tourism. The connectivity brought by air transport is at the heart of tourism development, providing substantial economic benefits for all those involved in the tourism value chain. Currently, approximately 1.4 billion tourists are crossing borders every year, over half of whom arrived at their destinations by air. Particularly for Least Developed Countries (LDCs),

Landlocked Developing Countries (LLDCs) and Small Island Developing States (SIDS), tourism is a main source of foreign exchange earnings and often one of the few activities for which their location, coupled with exceptional natural and cultural resources, is a strong competitive advantage. If tourism is well managed with a strong support by air transport, it can reduce poverty levels through employment of local people in tourism enterprises, goods and services provided to tourists, or the running of small and community based enterprises, etc. Business tourism, specifically meetings, incentives, conferences and exhibitions (MICE) activity, relies significantly on the availability of air travel and can generate a bigger economic impact because business travellers spend more, at least per day, than leisure visitors do. In addition to the expected benefits in the hotel, restaurant, and retail sectors, tourism also fosters growth in industries as varied as agriculture, business services, construction, and real estate⁶² (ICAO, 2019:19-20, <https://www.icao.int/sustainability/Documents/AVIATION-BENEFITS-2019-web.pdf>). It can be argued that nowadays there is a strong interrelation between human rights, democracy, tourism, nation branding and as a result many globally ranked top tourist destinations are now implementing business and community human rights protection programs or laws in order to continue to enjoy bigger economic benefits through tourism. The following section will cover information about the definition of terms in-depth.

5.2 Definition of terms

There are many definitions used in the airports and aviation industry today. ⁶³⁶⁴“For purposes of this textbook ‘branding’ refers to how a country, organization, group or individuals want to: (1) appeal, (2) be viewed, (3) be differentiated, (4) be identified, (5) benchmarked and so on by both its internal stakeholders (such as citizens, people, community, domestic market and so on) and

Furthermore, according to Professor Alon Tal (2019) In recent years there has been a rising interest among African countries in identifying new Israeli agricultural technologies and applying them locally. This is manifested in the stream of senior government visits to Jerusalem, innumerable exchange students who arrive for Israeli training programs of different lengths, participation in special workshops and exhibitions and the increasing presence of Israeli firms in Africa (Professor Alon Tal, 2019:7, <https://www.syngentafoundation.org/>). It is important to point-out the fact that Israel is one of the many countries in the Middle East region with a thriving tourism industry that contributes towards the economic growth rate and international trade of Israel. 5.7 Conclusion

It can be concluded that nowadays the main beneficiary of the rise of the cruise ship, airline, railway and airport industries’ in a country, province, state, city or town is ‘tourism’. It can also be concluded that the number of international and domestic travelers has reached over 1 billion in various tourist destinations. When international tourists and visitors travel around the world they bring with them the much needed foreign currency revenue to use to pay for their vacation costs in the host country. It can be concluded that the cruise ship, airline, railway and airport industries’ have become a key pillar to use to generate foreign currency, create jobs and develop modern transport infrastructure in a country whilst simultaneously implementing globally recognized human rights and democracy principles/values to help boost the ‘nation brand status’ of the country.

6.1 Introduction

⁸¹According to ICAO (2019:6) Aviation is one of the most “global” industries: connecting people, cultures and businesses across continents. Colleagues throughout the sector are committed to raising awareness of the benefits and the role of aviation. View of the Global Aviation Industry. Aviation has continued to expand. It has weathered crises and demonstrated long-term resilience, becoming an indispensable means of transport. Historically, air transport has doubled in size every fifteen years and has grown faster than most other industries (ICAO, 2019:6, <https://www.icao.int/>). ⁸²In general the global airport and aviation industry has significantly transformed many businesses and peoples’ lives for the better. Remarkably over the past number of years the airport and aviation industry has successfully led to massive infrastructure development projects that seem to be in direct alignment with the current ‘global tourism, international trade, aviation, migration & investments’ goals such as environmental Indeed it is true that many airports located in Africa, Europe, Asia, North America, the Middle East, South America and Oceania are becoming climate change friendly in order to play a greater role towards conserving the environment. The following section will cover information about the definition of terms in-depth.

Federal Aviation Administration defines general aviation as all flights that are not conducted by the military or the scheduled airlines. As such, business aviation is a part of general aviation that focuses on the business use of airplanes and helicopters. The business aviation community consists of companies of all sizes that rely on many different types of aircraft – from single-pilot airplanes, to turbine aircraft that fly internationally, to helicopters that survey rush-hour traffic – and the fixed-base operations and many other services that support flight operations at the nation’s 5,000 public-use airports”” (National Business Aviation Association, 2022, <https://nbaa.org/business-aviation/> cited Rudolph Muteswa, 2023:19). 6.3 What is an ‘airport’

In general there are many definitions of airports. ⁸⁷“airport, also called air terminal, aerodrome, or airfield, site and installation for the takeoff and landing of aircraft. An airport usually has paved runways and maintenance facilities and serves as a terminal for passengers and cargo” (Ashford, Norman J.. "airport". Encyclopedia Britannica, 18 Jul. 2019, <https://www.britannica.com/technology/airport>. Accessed 9 December 2022). The following section will cover information about typical examples of leading global airports of various countries in-depth.

6.4 Examples of leading global airports from Norway, Chile, France, Singapore & Germany

Today the airport and aviation industry is now highly competitive and many countries around the world are investing huge sums of money towards their continuous development. Some of the leading world class (state-of-the-art facilities & technologies) global airports include the following:

6.4.1 Norway - (Oslo Airport)

There are many airports in Norway and one of the most popular airport in Norway that will be discussed in this section is called ‘Oslo Airport’. Oslo Airport is globally renowned for its climate friendly operational activities and massive infrastructure developments. The world class architecturally attractive facilities of Oslo Airport will be clearly depicted by Figure 6.1 below.

⁸⁸“ABOUT OSLO AIRPORT. Oslo Airport (OSL) is Norway's main airport and was opened on 8 October 1998. In 2020, Oslo Airport served 9 million travelers. The airport is located in Ullensaker and Nannestad Municipality, approximately 47 km north of Oslo. The airport has a strong environmental profile which includes major focus on public transport to and from the airport. 15,000 people work at Oslo Airport to keep the airport running 24 hours a day. They are employed by more than 100 companies working on everything from baggage handling to air navigation” (Avinor AS, 2022, <https://avinor.no/en/corporate/airport/oslo/about-us/about-oslo-airport/about-oslo-airport>).⁸⁹““BACKGROUND AND FACTS. The current airport was opened in 1998 and was built to handle 17 million passengers annually. In 2013, nearly 23 million passengers flew to and from the airport. April 27, 2017 was the official opening of the new Oslo Airport, which now can handles 32 million passengers a year. Brief history. • Planning of the new major expansion of Oslo Airport started in 2007 in close collaboration with airlines and handling companies. • In March 2008, the board of Avinor chose the design concept and location of the new central building and new pier with aprons. • In January 2009, Oslo Airport signed a contract for the delivery of project and construction management with Advansia. • On 12 February 2009, the board of Avinor chose the project team Team_T to design the capacity increase at Oslo Airport. The preliminary project was completed on 4 February 2010. It was developed in close cooperation with OSL's project organisation, Advansia's project management and Team_T. • June 2010 saw the start-up of the first minor construction work and other preparations. • The project was approved by Avinor's board on 19 January 2011. • The main expansion project started in the spring of 2011. The new Oslo Airport is as simple, efficient and architecturally attractive as the original. The expansion represents a further development of Norwegian construction, with extensive use of natural materials and with simple and intricate solutions. The terminal still appears as a building because the new part has become an integral part of the original building and has the same characteristic roof shape and volume. Passengers have received large areas of landfills both before and after security checks. The security check is expanded with 12 new locks and is assembled in one area. Passengers are short walking distance to both domestic and international flights. Emphasis has been placed on good accessibility and universal design. The service offer has been expanded with new serving venues and more and bigger stores. There have also been several new well-placed toilets and changing rooms. Construction commenced in the summer of 2012 and the new Oslo Airport was completed April 27, 2017”⁹⁰ (Avinor

““CLIMATE. As is the case for aircraft, the climate impact of emissions from airport operations is both local and global. CLIMATE PROGRAM. Objective: "No fossil greenhouse gas emissions from own controllable activities by 2022" and "Oslo Airport shall have a public transport share of 70% by 2020." In May 2014, Oslo Airport's management decided to set a new and ambitious target for its work on emission-reducing measures, namely that we will not release fossil greenhouse gas emissions from our own activities by 2020. ⁹¹In practice, this means that the main airport shall not release greenhouse gases from its own fleet of vehicles, use of the fire training area, as a result of de-icing or through consumption of thermal energy by 2020. A special climate programme that will work systematically and comprehensively towards this goal has been established at the airport. Our biggest source of greenhouse gas emissions is the LTO cycle, i.e. emissions from aircraft below 3,000 feet that are landing, taxiing and taking off at the airport. These emissions can be significantly reduced if second generation biofuels are phased in. Under commission from Avinor, SAS, Norwegian and the Federation of Norwegian Aviation Industries (NHO luftfart), Rambøll has studied whether it is possible to establish commercially profitable Norwegian production of sustainable biofuels for aviation. The report concludes that synthetic biofuels can be produced in Norway at competitive prices by 2025. Greenhouse gas inventory. We have mapped our greenhouse gas emissions annually since 2006 and have presented them in a carbon inventory. The greenhouse gas inventory we prepare is in accordance with the Greenhouse Gas Protocol and ISO 14064. Moreover, Oslo Airport has been an Airport Carbon Accreditation (ACA) airport, the highest level in the scheme, since 2009. Oslo Airport's carbon inventory and ACA application are verified annually by third parties. Increased public transport share. Oslo Airport is also working to increase the share of public transport to the airport. Ground transport, i.e. how our passengers get to and from the airport, is actually our second largest source of emissions. The public transport share in 2014 was 68% and it is a goal to see this rate rise to 70% by 2020. The Institute of Transport Economics (TØI) has studied ground transport at Oslo Airport and come up with specific recommendations on what measures should be taken if we are to achieve this goal”⁹² (Avinor AS, 2022, <https://avinor.no/en/corporate/airport/oslo/community-and-environment/klima/klimaprogram>).

“Groupe ADP (45% of the capital) and its partners Vinci Airports (40%) and Astaldi Concessioni (15%) are in charge of operating all the infrastructures for the full period of the concession (20 years), within the Nuevo Pudahuel consortium. In particular, in less than five years the consortium has built a new 248,400 m² international terminal, which will be inaugurated on 26 February 2022. This project began with the first two departure lounges, which were opened in 2018 and 2019. With the extension of the existing terminal, which was reallocated to domestic traffic, the airport's capacity more than doubled from 16 to 38 million passengers per year” (Groupe ADP, 2022, <https://www.parisaeroport.fr/en/group/strategy/airport-network/santiago-de-chile>). “The passenger experience has also been improved. With the new terminal, waiting times are greatly reduced thanks to 96 automatic check-in kiosks, 64 baggage drop-off counters, 40% more border control counters and a new baggage handling system. The terminal also includes new shopping areas, restaurants and services, such as a crèche and a showroom”⁹⁴ (Groupe ADP, 2022, <https://www.parisaeroport.fr/en/group/strategy/airport-network/santiago-de-chile>). “Arturo-Merito Benítez Airport, which ranks among the top 10 airports in South America for the quality of passenger services (Skytrax World Airports Awards 2020), is becoming an international hub, the most modern in South America. At the same time, the airport is engaged in an active process of environmental transition driven by Groupe ADP's Environment Plan and Vinci Airports' AirPact action plan. These have enabled the airport to be one of the first in South America to achieve level 2 of the ACA (Airport Carbon Accreditation) issued by the ACI (Airports Council International)”⁹⁵ (Groupe ADP, 2022, <https://www.parisaeroport.fr/en/group/strategy/airport-network/santiago-de-chile>). ⁹⁶“For example, 10,336 LED lights have been installed, reducing energy consumption for lighting by 70%. Ground transportation emissions are also being reduced thanks to six new electric buses that have been in service since July 2021. More than 7 hectares have been reforested on the airport site and over 600 trees have been donated to the municipality of Pudahuel. This dynamic will be further strengthened with the commissioning in 2022 of a photovoltaic plant with a capacity of 826 KW, installed on the roof of the existing terminal. The overall objective is to reduce the airport's carbon footprint by 40% by 2030 and to achieve zero net emissions by 2050. With the Santiago de Chile airport, Groupe ADP expresses all its know-how as a global airport operator and its expertise in design and engineering. 38 million passengers per year expected. 20 new destinations open in 2019. 40% reduction in carbon footprint by 2030”⁹⁷ (Groupe ADP, 2022, <https://www.parisaeroport.fr/en/group/strategy/airport-network/santiago-de-chile>). Paris, welcomed 76.2 million passengers in 2019, making it the leading airport in France and the 2nd largest in Europe. Paris-Charles de Gaulle serves 328 destinations in 119 countries. • 76,2million passengers • 328destinations covered in 119 countries • 4runways • 298aircrafts parking stands including 131 in contact with the terminals • 90 190direct jobs. As the hub of the national airline Air France and the main European hub of the Sky Team alliance, the airport handles the largest share of long-haul flights from Paris. Its connecting platform makes it the 3rd European hub for global connectivity (source: Hub Connectivity report), but the 1st for intercontinental traffic. The airport has nine passenger terminals spread over three large terminals and two independent runway doubles adapted to very large aircraft, which allow a maximum scheduling capacity of 120 movements per hour. The airport has 298 aircraft parking positions, 131 of which are in contact with the terminals. Finally, Paris-Charles de Gaulle is also home to the European hub of the express carrier FedEx and the largest cargo area in Europe. More than 700 companies are present at the Paris-Charles de Gaulle hub, which provides 90,190 direct jobs in all sectors of activity. A privileged location for the traffic. Point-to-point traffic accounts for over two-thirds of passenger traffic at Paris-Charles de Gaulle airport. The airport is also ideally located. The airport is also ideally located to attract connecting traffic, thus boosting long-haul traffic since Paris is less than two hours by air from all major Western European cities. In 2017, connecting traffic accounted for 30.6% of traffic. A powerful hub. Paris-Charles de Gaulle airport is the global hub of the airline Air France-KLM and the main European hub of the SkyTeam alliance. 3rd European hub for global connectivity (number of cities covered), behind Frankfurt and Amsterdam According to the ACI Europe “Airport Industry Connectivity 2017” report which assesses the network of connections offered at airports. It is the European hub of La Poste and FedEx, the extension underway will enable an approximate 50% increase in sorting and parcel processing capacity and will be operational in 2019. It is also home to all of the main international freight companies. Its processing capacity of around 3.6 million tonnes of cargo per year provides expansion opportunities for cargo companies (ACI Europe “Airport Industry Connectivity 2017” & ACI Europe Hub Connectivity report, 2022 cited in Groupe ADP, 2022, <https://www.parisaeroport.fr/en/group/strategy/airport-network/paris-charles-de-gaulle-airport>).

Furthermore, according to Groupe ADP (2022) Airlines and cities served. The main airlines operating from Paris-Charles de Gaulle airport serve 325 cities. Easy access to the airport. The airport is served by a road and railway network that provides easy access for passengers, cargo transporters and airport personnel. This places it at the cutting edge for intermodality compared with other airports. The airport is accessible thanks to the proximity of motorways, a TGV high-speed train station at the heart of terminal CDG2, two RER commuter stations and a coach station at terminal 1. ¹⁰¹Lastly, the automatic shuttle rail service CDGVa1, connects the three airport terminals, the RER-TGV stations and the long-stay car parks. Future of Changi

¹⁰⁶ Changi Airport Group (2022) Our Story. Available from: <https://www.changiairport.com/corporate/about-us/our-story.html> [Accessed December 13, 2022]

Today, Changi Airport is renowned for its unrivalled passenger experiences, which have become synonymous with global connectivity, clockwork efficiency and unique, thoughtful services. As the number of passengers we welcome continues to rise, and the needs of those passengers become increasingly sophisticated, our challenge is to raise our standards even higher. It's a challenge we are already embracing, with creative solutions and signature experiences that will redefine air travel for generations to come.

Changi East

Passenger traffic at Changi Airport is expected to grow by 3–4% every year for the next 20 years. At this rate, current airport capacity will be reached by the late 2020s. The Changi East development is a response to this expected growth. It's a bold strategy to maintain Changi Airport's and Singapore's competitive edge for the long term. With a new, third runway, one of the world's largest mega terminals, and a range of exciting new facilities, Changi East will ensure Changi Airport is equipped to accommodate and delight ever more passengers and their ever-increasing demands" (Changi Airport Group, 2022, <https://www.changiairport.com/corporate/about-us/our-story.html>). The following section will cover information about a popular airport in Germany in-depth.

6.4.5 Germany - (Munich Airport)

In general there are many airports located in Germany and one of the most popular airport in Germany that will be discussed in this section is called 'Munich Airport'. Munich Airport is one of the most sustainable airports in the world and it handles many popular destinations and airlines across the world. The amazingly beautiful architecturally attractive infrastructure at Munich Airport will be clearly depicted by Figure 6.17 below.

• Since the airport opened in 1992, the number of passengers in Munich has more than tripled. The new Munich Airport opened in 1992 with 12 million passengers. The terminal reached its capacity limit within a few years. With the opening of Terminal 2 in 2003 and its expansion to include the satellite, the number of passengers also increased significantly: In 2016, 42.3 million passengers used Munich Airport.” (Flughafen München GmbH, 2022, <https://www.munich-airport.com/history-of-munich-airport-453566>). “Aircraft movements. Munich Airport recorded 192,000 take-offs and landings in its early years. In 2016, the total was 394,000. Meanwhile, the capacity bottlenecks in the runway system are becoming increasingly evident. During peak traffic hours, there are no longer any free slots for takeoffs and landings, which means that many of the connections in demand cannot be realized”¹⁰⁸ (Flughafen München GmbH, 2022, <https://www.munich-airport.com/history-of-munich-airport-453566>). “Air freight. Air freight at Munich Airport experienced a particular boom: in 1992, just 57,000 tons of freight were handled. The growing demand for passenger and freight traffic necessitated extensive expansion measures: In 2005, a new 4,400-square-meter cargo hall was put into operation. In 2007, a new forwarding agent building was opened where more than 50 trucks can dock simultaneously. In 2016, 356,000 metric tons of freight were handled through Munich

¹¹¹“Press: Munich Airport celebrates milestone birthday. Becoming a major hub airport in three decades. Exactly 30 years ago, on the night of May 17, 1992, Munich Airport moved to its current location about 30 kilometers northeast of Munich. Since then, Munich Airport has handled around 850 million passengers and almost six million tons of air freight on a total of nearly ten million flights to and from Munich. In the record year of 2019, Munich Airport recorded a total of nearly 48 million passengers and approximately 417,000 takeoffs and landings. The number of aircraft movements has thus more than doubled since the airport opened in 1992, while passenger numbers have nearly quadrupled over the same period. And in fact, the volume of air freight has increased six-fold. This above-average growth was mainly driven by the further development of the new airport into a major European hub airport. Munich Airport's success story was interrupted in March 2020 by the Corona pandemic, which had a massive impact on air traffic worldwide. In the meantime, a significant recovery followed the lifting of many travel restrictions. During this year's Easter vacations, traffic in Munich reached more than 70 percent of pre-crisis levels for the first time again. The airport's relocation from Munich's suburb of Riem to the northeast between the cities of Freising and Erding received worldwide attention. In just one night, around 5,000 people with almost 700 trucks managed this mega move and the punctual start of operations on the following morning. Thanks to the expertise and reputation gained in this way, Munich Airport has since been operating successfully as a consultant for airport relocations and airport openings worldwide. As strategic partners, Munich Airport and Lufthansa joined forces when they reached an agreement in 1998 to jointly build, finance and operate Munich Airport's Terminal 2. To date, this cooperation between the airport and the airline is unique within the international aviation industry.” (Flughafen München GmbH, 2022, <https://www.munich-airport.com/press-munich-airport-celebrates-milestone-birthday-13546272>). ““According to Skytrax Munich Airport ranks for years among the most passenger-friendly airports in Europe and also received the award as a 5-star airport. The opening of Germany's first midfield terminal in 2016 marked the next significant expansion, adding a capacity of 11 million to a total capacity of 50 million passengers. Just three years after opening the mid-field terminal, the first construction phase began in April 2019 for the new pier at Terminal 1, which will significantly improve the service and quality of stay in Terminal 1. Munich Airport is known for its spirit of innovation and diversification. In March 2018, the kick-off for the LabCampus took place in the northwest of the airport: a cross-industry innovation and collaboration center on the airport site. LAB 48, the first building on the LabCampus, will be completed soon. Jost Lammers, CEO of Munich Airport, takes the airport's birthday as an opportunity to look to the future with confidence: "Even though its impressive success story was interrupted by the massive impact of the Covid 19 pandemic, Munich remains a main player in the Champions League of European airports. In these weeks, we are seeing the enormous momentum with which air traffic is currently picking up again after two years of crisis. I am therefore confident that we will soon reach pre-crisis levels again and subsequently grow beyond them."¹¹⁴ (Flughafen München GmbH, 2022, <https://www.munich-airport.com/press-munich-airport-celebrates-milestone-birthday-13546272>). 6.5 Conclusion

The airport and aviation industry is growing on a yearly basis due to the creation of new tourist destinations by various countries around the world that are aiming to boost their international tourist arrival rates. Travel destinations such as the United States of America, Belgium, The Netherlands, Republic of Cyprus, India, Canada, Mexico, France, Monaco, Israel, South Africa, Kingdom of Saudi Arabia, Argentina, Switzerland, Kenya, Latvia, Australia, Germany, the United Kingdom, Ghana, Austria, Romania, Italy, Chile, Brazil, Ireland, Hashemite Kingdom of Jordan, Sweden, Zambia, State of Qatar, Denmark, Botswana, Thailand, Liechtenstein, The Bahamas, New Zealand, Jamaica, Japan, Tanzania, Finland, Liberia, Luxembourg, The Gambia, Estonia, United Arab Emirates, Spain, Malawi, Costa Rica, Mauritius, Nigeria, Singapore, Namibia, Norway and many others have become popular tourist routes. Thus this has led to various airports management companies taking action to invest more of their scarce financial resources towards the reconstruction of their airport facilities. While on the other hand various airlines are now using more large aircrafts to carry more passengers in these popular tourist routes. Many airports and airlines tend to receive significant numbers of domestic/global travelers during holiday time periods therefore ‘continuous innovation’ and ‘good operations management’ have become critical in order to be able to offer travelers memorable customer experiences whilst maximizing profits and loyalty.

Chapter 7: What is a cruise ship & the various examples of popular cruise ships in Canada & the Republic of India

After reading this chapter you should be able to:

- Define the following terms ‘yacht’ and ‘boat’.
- Discuss what is a ‘cruise’.
- Identify four different types of cruises. Discuss at least one popular cruise ship based in Canada.
- List at least one popular cruise ship based in the Republic of India.

7.1 Introduction

Nowadays cruise ships have become the pillar of modern tourism and its future success based on the accelerated growth rate patterns in the global cruise tourism sector. Cruise tourism has become a key economic factor in various countries around the world since it enables the host country to receive the much needed foreign currency and international visitors. When travelers get onboard a cruise ship they are offered a hotel set-up living environment that encompasses dining, swimming, surfing, diving, fishing, entertainment, bedroom, shore tours, spa, gym and movie theatre amenities/services as they are transported from one holiday destination to another via the sea/rivers. Cruises enable holiday travelers to enjoy more benefits for the services they paid and nowadays most cruise companies offer various price ranges for passengers to choose a preferred price package. It is important to point-out the fact that cruise ships now accommodate all members of a family (for example adults, grandparents, teenagers, children, people living with disability and so on). There are various countries that are currently enjoying a thriving cruise tourism industry for example Canada, India, the United States of America, Belgium, The Netherlands, France, Monaco, Kingdom of Saudi Arabia, Switzerland, Australia, Germany, the United Kingdom, Austria, Italy, Brazil, Ireland, New Zealand, Luxembourg, Spain, Norway and many others. The following section will cover information about the definition of terms in-depth.

7.2 Definition of terms

¹¹⁵“Yacht, a sail- or power-driven vessel, usually light and comparatively small, used for racing or for recreation” (Britannica, The Editors of Encyclopaedia. "yacht". Encyclopedia Britannica, 9 Nov. 2023, <https://www.britannica.com/technology/yacht>. Accessed 30 December 2023).

¹¹⁶Boat, generic term for small watercraft propelled by paddles, oars, sail, or motor, open or partially decked, and usually less than 45 feet (roughly 14 metres) in length (Britannica, The Editors of Encyclopaedia. "boat". Encyclopedia Britannica, 28 Dec. 2023, <https://www.britannica.com/technology/boat>. Accessed 30 December 2023). The following section will cover information about the meaning of the term ‘cruise ship’ in-depth.

7.3 What is a ‘cruise’

¹¹⁷ According to Stainton (2023) A cruise is a holiday where you travel by, and stay on, a ship or boat - usually a ship (Stainton, 2023, <https://tourismteacher.com/types-of-cruise/>). When a cruise ship is sailing with its passengers it aims to provide its passengers a memorable, comfortable, high quality and adventure-inspired voyage journey. Cruise holiday trips enable travelers to visit different tourist attraction sites in cities or countries whilst simultaneously allowing them to enjoy sailing in the sea/river in a luxurious relaxing fun environment. The following section will cover the some of the different types of cruises offered around the world in the cruise tourism industry.

7.4 Four different types of cruises identified by Dr. Hayley Stainton (a top United Kingdom based academic)

There are many different types of cruises offered to travelers/tourists around the world and some of the common types of cruises that were identified by a top United Kingdom academic Dr. Hayley Stainton are as follows:

7.4.1 ¹¹⁸“River cruises. A river cruise is, as the name suggests, a cruise taken down a particular river. Due to the fact that rivers are much smaller than seas and oceans, so too are river cruise ships. You travel along inland waterways, and there will be the chance to stop off at various city ports – you are also able to see a lot of scenery on river cruises as you will generally always have land directly to each side of you. This is very different to ocean cruises, where all you can see on ‘days at sea’ is an expanse of sparkling blue water. A river cruise is favoured by those looking for a relaxing and slower-paced trip. These types of cruise are a huge part of the travel and tourism industry, with trips on the following rivers being particularly common:

- Nile
- Danube
- Ganga
- Mississippi
- Yangtze
- Rhine
- Douro

You might also see river day cruises – these take place on small sections of river which typically flow through a city centre such as Chester, Amsterdam, Paris or Cairo!

¹¹⁸ Stainton, H. (2023) Types of Cruises. Available from: <https://tourismteacher.com/types-of-cruise/> [Accessed January 26, 2024] ©2023 Dr Hayley Stainton, all rights reserved

7.4.2 Expedition cruise. An expedition cruise is one of the types of cruise aimed at adventurous travellers who want to do a lot more than simply relaxing while on a cruise. They again tend to be smaller ships than ocean liners, as they travel to more far-flung places. Should Be Cruising says that these ships also have shallower drafts than regular cruise ships, so they can access smaller inlets and shallow harbors. There are so many activities available on expedition cruises. If you're cruising in warmer waters you might go scuba diving, and if cruising in colder waters such as the Arctic, you might go trekking across the top of a glacier. Expedition cruises are all completely different – you might go on a historic expedition cruise where the focus is on history, or a nature cruise to look at plants or animals in different locations. Going to see the Northern Lights is another popular example!

7.4.3 Mega cruise. A mega cruise ship is one of the most popular types of cruise. These ships can typically accommodate 5000+ guests. These are the types of ships – and vacations – which will generally spring to mind when you hear the word 'cruise' – except they are the biggest of these typical cruise ships. They are ocean liners, usually 300+ metres long, weighing hundreds of thousands of tonnes!

7.4.4 ¹¹⁹Luxury cruise. This type of cruise is a subtype of other cruises – you can have luxury ocean cruises and luxury river cruises, as well as luxury yacht trips of course. But what makes a cruise luxury? They tend to offer a much higher quality of service: private dining rooms, butlers, gourmet restaurants with world-class chefs, opulent decor, strict dress codes and more. As you'd imagine, they are a lot more expensive than other cruises!"'(Stainton, 2023, <https://tourismteacher.com/types-of-cruise/>). The following section will cover information about typical examples of leading cruise ships of various countries in-depth.

7.5 Examples of leading cruise ships from Canada and the Republic of India

Innovation, quality management, effective marketing strategies, employer branding and climate friendly sustainability have become the pillar behind the success of the modern day cruise ship and yacht industry. Today there are many organizations located in various parts of the world that are associated with the transport and tourism/hospitality industries that are now investing their scarce financial resources in the growing global cruise ship and yacht industry. The various typical examples of the leading world class cruise ships organizations include the following:

7.5.1 Canada – (St Lawrence Cruise Lines)

There are several popular cruise ship companies based in Canada and one of the most popular cruise ship operator in Canada that will be discussed in this section is ‘St Lawrence Cruise Lines’. Jason Clark, President. How it all began... The M/V Canadian Empress was the result of some fanciful thinking on the part of Bob Clark in 1979. Bob lived on the St. Lawrence River for a number of years. He recognized its many attractions and scenic beauty and couldn't understand why there wasn't an overnight cruise ship allowing visitors to experience this very special part of the world. Bob's entrepreneurial spirit took hold of the idea and wouldn't allow him to let go. So, he utilized his background in architecture, real estate and engineering, and within a short period of time the keel of the ship was being laid. The M/V Canadian Empress was launched on September 6th, 1981. The year 1908 was chosen as the design theme, because Bob wanted a vessel that would integrate well with the history of the St. Lawrence River. The original decor was also highlighted by Victorian accents, such as brass railings and tin ceilings. Bob was a firm believer in a "hands-on" management style and it was not uncommon to find Bob and his wife Myrna cruising on board with passengers. The M/V Canadian Empress is not a replica of any specific vessel. It is a composite replica of many vessels that were common in the St. Lawrence region during the last century. In its 40 year history, the Canadian Empress has hosted guests from virtually every province of Canada, every state in the United States and numerous countries throughout the world (St Lawrence Cruise Lines, 2023, <https://www.stlawrencecruiselines.com/about-us/>).¹²¹“Cruise Choices. St. Lawrence River. The St. Lawrence River in its most limited bounds, begins at the foot of Lake Ontario, opposite the city of Kingston and flows generally in a north-easterly direction about 775 miles, when its flood mingles with that of the gulf by the same name. Beyond the Gulf of St. Lawrence lies the vast Atlantic Ocean. The St. Lawrence River has its source in the largest body of fresh water on the globe, and among all of the big rivers of the world, it is the only one whose volume is not greatly affected by the elements. This river, which Sir J.M. LeMoine called "The noblest, the purest, most enchanting river on all God's beautiful earth," for miles upon miles acts as a natural boundary between the good friends of the United States and Canada. The 1000 Islands. With each nautical mile, nature's northern masterpiece unfolds. Within one 50-mile stretch on one of the world's largest rivers you will find no less than 1,870 islands. In these "1000 Islands", birthplace of the famous 1000 Islands Dressing, you will explore intricate river channels, sumptuous greenery, mysterious coves, nooks and crannies veiled in folklore. Here you will find opulent summer residences including famous mansions and castles. The St. Lawrence Seaway. The St. Lawrence Seaway is one of the most ambitious engineering feats of the last century. The objectives: increase the size of the St. Lawrence River shipping channel and generate hydro-electric power for Ontario, Quebec and New York State. Entire villages were relocated to higher ground, utilizing the largest moving and construction equipment in the world. As the temporary "coffer dams" were blown on July 1st, 1958, people watched with mixed emotions. Slowly rising water covered familiar land forever. It was sad for some to know they could never go home again. Others were excited to think of the new conveniences and services, modern schools and new friends. A major highlight is the opportunity to pass through the locks between Kingston and Montreal, experiencing an overall change in water level of 246 feet. The Ottawa River. First explored by Samuel de Champlain in 1613, the Ottawa River is the largest tributary of the St. Lawrence River. The total length of the Ottawa River is approximately 790 statute miles with a total drop in level of no less than 1,100 feet. It drains an area of 57,000 square miles and has an average flow of about 70,000 cubic feet of water per second. ¹²³This is said to be greater than that of all the rivers of England and Wales put together. This is significant, particularly when one considers that it is only a tributary of the mighty St. Lawrence (St. Lawrence Cruise Lines, 2023, <https://www.stlawrencecruiselines.com/the-experience/>). The following section will cover information about a popular cruise ship based in the Republic of India in-depth.

7.5.2 Republic of India – (Antara River Cruises which owns the popular cruise ship MV Ganga Vilas)

River cruising in India is a recent phenomenon. The credit for bringing the Indian river cruise industry to the world stage belongs to Antara River Cruises, a rapidly growing boutique cruise brand of Heritage River Journeys which is introducing travellers to the majestic waterways of India and Bangladesh and having them sail on indigenously designed world-class ships in sustainable luxury while finding adventure and pleasure. In January 2023, the company launched the world's longest river cruise on MV Ganga Vilas. The newest member of the fleet of Antara River Cruises is an 18-suite ship that offers the most picturesque river cruise covering 51 days across 2 countries, 5 states and 27 river systems. Antara Ganga Vilas sails from Varanasi to Dibrugarh via Dhaka (Antara River Cruises, 2024, <https://www.antaracruises.com/river-cruise/ganga-vilas/>). The stunning interior décor and facilities of the Antara Ganga Vilas will be clearly depicted by Figure 7.3 below.

Pioneered by Mr. Raj Singh, Antara River Cruises built for the first time in India, a fleet of luxurious sustainable river ships that offer plush accommodations while also bringing regenerative experiences to both travelers and local communities. Operating successfully since 2009, the Antara Fleet has sailed the Indo-Bangladesh protocol route, touched the ghats of holy Varanasi, meandered through the sleepy towns of Bengal and explored the gorgeous Sunderbans among its many destinations.

Other itineraries offered by Antara River Cruises include an 11-day special vegan cruise from Kolkata offering insights into princely Murshidabad and the secrets of Sundarbans, as well as bespoke shorter 7 night/8 day round trip cruises that focus on the artisans of Bengal, textiles etc., for special interest groups on the Ganges Voyager I and II – both 28 suite ships.

In January 2024, Antara River Cruises is set to introduce Catamaran cruises in Odisha, a state in eastern India. These two-suite catamarans will take you to the heart of Bhitarkanika – popularly called the “mini-Amazon” and tour the estuarine region of the Brahmani – Baitarani River systems and their tributaries.

Nauka Vilas, a single suite boat, will be launched in 2024 as well as the upgraded Ganga Bengal with 20 suites.

¹²⁴“Overview. Antara Ganga Vilas is a celebration of India’s post-independence design and a tribute to its innovations. Each room is inspired by Josef Albers’ paintings which are experiments in the perception of color as well as tantra and its quest to perceive the many parts of the universe in its wholeness. Ganga Vilas, resplendent in its design, sails the ancient river, glowing through day and night. As the ship sails, guests watch people on the banks as the people gaze back at the slow movement of its crisp and radiant colours. The changing light reflects on

The jewel tones of Varanasi's Himalayan Buddhist Gyasar textiles, the soft curves of mid-century Indian teak furniture, original contemporary art, handmade tiles, wooden hallways and staircases – the ship is altogether chic, meditative and sumptuous. The following section will cover information about the conclusion of this chapter in-depth.

7.6 Conclusion

It can be concluded that cruise tourism has become a key economic factor in various countries around the world since it enables the host country to receive the much needed foreign currency and international visitors. Repeat tourism is one of the key benefits of cruise tourism and it is a well known fact that cruise tourists are more likely to come back to the same country in the near future and this ultimately leads to more foreign currency coming into the host country's national financial system. Thus it can be concluded that the value of cruise ships to the global economy keeps increasing on a regular basis. Another key benefit of cruise tourism is that more jobs are created in various sectors of an economy such as the retail, hospitality, hotel, telecommunications, transport, energy and so on since international tourists spend their foreign currency buying local products and services.

7.6 Review questions

- 1) Define the following terms ‘yacht’ and ‘boat’?

Chapter 8: Examples of popular global airlines based in Europe & Asia

After reading this chapter you should be able to:

- Define the following terms ‘air transport movements’ and ‘cargo transport’.
- Explain the reasons why the aviation industry is associated with the tourism industry sector.
- Highlight the various popular international airlines headquartered on the continent of Europe.
- List the various popular international airlines headquartered on the continent of Asia.

8.1 Introduction

¹²⁶¹²⁷According to the International Civil Aviation Organization (ICAO) (2019:30-32) Aviation provides vital lifelines and connections to remote or peripheral destinations that otherwise would not be available, for example, in the Arctic, across vast stretches of wilderness and to small island States all around the world. It offers accessibility to these destinations without the need for expensive and challenging road and port infrastructure development. Aviation contributes to Improving Quality of Life by broadening people’s leisure and cultural experiences. It provides an affordable means to visit distant friends and relatives. Low cost and more frequent access to air travel has increased the range of potential holiday destinations. As people move for employment, educational or lifestyle reasons, many families are now located in different regions around the world (ICAO, 2019:30-32, <https://www.icao.int/>). The following section will cover information about the definition of terms in-depth.

8.2 Definition of terms

¹²⁸¹²⁹ “Air transport movements - An air transport movement means a landing or take-off. Air transport movement in scheduled traffic means a movement in commercial traffic according to an official timetable. Air transport movement in non-scheduled traffic means a non-scheduled movement in commercial traffic (charters, relief services, etc.; taxi flights excluded). Cargo transport - Both paying and non paying freight, including military mail and express freight. Goods leaving the airport on the same aircraft as the one by which they have arrived (transit-direct) are left out of account, as well as trucking freight” (Amsterdam Airport Schiphol, 2022, <https://www.annualreportschiphol.com/trafficreview2021/glossary> cited in Rudolph Muteswa, 2023:93 famous book title - The World’s Amazingly Beautiful & Magnificent Airports, Flight Destinations & Airlines 1st Edition). The following section will cover information that will help to explain why the airline industry is linked to the tourism industry.

8.3 Why the airline industry is associated with the tourism industry sector

Today many travelers around the world now expect airlines to offer them high quality, safe and convenient air transport at affordable prices. In general air transport is the fastest mode of transport and many global travelers opt to use it in order to enjoy convenience. Modern aircrafts are becoming spacious or bigger in terms of size while on the other hand airline companies are now making tremendous efforts to match some of their services (such as food menus, executive packages of inflight cabin features with large television sets, single/double beds, bathrooms and so on) to those offered by hotels and restaurant services. In a nutshell aircrafts have become hubs of tourism as they seek to offer fun, amazing, memorable and unique customer experiences at very affordable prices to their passengers. Therefore, this enables airlines to enjoy a competitive advantage over other modes of transport (rail, sea and road) when travelling.¹³⁰¹³¹“Aviation is the backbone of the tourism industry. Germans mainly travel to other countries by plane, and large numbers of foreign tourists also come to Germany by air. This creates jobs – both here in Germany and in the tourist destination countries. Air transport makes a decisive contribution to people’s individual mobility. Even long distances can be covered quickly and safely with air travel, which is why airplanes are indispensable in private and business travel. Air transport enables millions of people to engage in cultural exchange, and it also boosts the tourism industry, which is a major economic factor both in Germany and in the tourist destination countries. Foreign passengers in Germany. Guests from abroad mainly choose airplanes for private or business travel to Germany. For the vast majority of people in the world, air travel is the only way to travel to Germany, as it is the only means of transport that can cover long distances in a short time.” (German Aviation Association, 2023, <https://www.bdl.aero/en/topics-and-positions/the-importance-of-air-transport/tourism/> cited in Rudolph Muteswa, 2024:16 famous book title - Tourist Destinations & International Airlines Revised Edition). This chapter will help to educate travelers about the various highly attractive services and latest aircraft cabin features that passengers are now enjoying when flying to different local and international destinations. The following section will cover information about the various examples of popular international airlines in-depth.

8.5 Conclusion

Today it is unquestionable that the aviation industry is developing at an accelerated rate due to the digital revolution and high innovation rates associated with the industry. It can be concluded that global airlines nowadays are investing a lot of their scarce financial resources towards: building powerful corporate brands, designing high quality air travel products, acquiring the latest technologically advanced aircrafts and operating systems in order to remain competitive and profitable. Over the past number of years the number of domestic and international travel destinations has significantly increased due to the increased modern aircraft models that have fuel efficient engines. It can be concluded that global airlines are successfully winning customer loyalty through offering customer friendly services on a consistent basis.

Chapter 9: What is a train & the various examples of popular trains in the United States of America & the Republic of Austria,

After reading this chapter you should be able to:

- Define the following terms ‘rail transport’ and ‘world’.
- Discuss the different types of rail transport.
- List at least one popular train company based in the United States of America.
- Identify at least one popular train company based in the Republic of Austria.

9.1 Introduction

“Railways are a climate-smart and efficient way to move people and freight. Railways promote economic growth while cutting greenhouse gas emissions. They are a clean and compact way to move millions of passengers and millions of tons of goods across countries and continents. Yet railways constitute a shrinking share of transport in many developing countries, where railway service is often uncompetitive and poorly integrated with other forms of transport. Slow speed, high prices, and lack of reliability mean that potential users choose other transport options” (World Bank Group, 2023, <https://www.worldbank.org/en/topic/transport/brief/railways>). Today various international financial institutions are playing a critical role towards the development of railway transport in various countries for example The World Bank Group. “To make rail more efficient, and useful to both urban dwellers commuting to work and factory managers moving freight, the World Bank supports developing country governments in tackling three key challenges:

- Reforms in the way railroads are organized and financed, including better governance and more competition, which will provide better service at lower prices.
- Integrating railways into a country’s transportation network. This often requires both new investments in terminals and a new way of thinking about how railroads mesh with roads, ports and businesses in general.
- Research into rail’s impact on poverty. With a better understanding of rail’s potential to address poverty, transport ministries and urban planners can make more informed decisions on policies and investments” (World Bank Group, 2023, <https://www.worldbank.org/en/topic/transport/brief/railways>).¹⁵¹ According to the World Bank Group (2023) The World Bank is working across the globe to help developing countries put more people and more freight onto efficient, well-managed railways.

• In India, the World Bank is financing a dedicated freight corridor, which will meet the country’s rising demand for energy-smart and environmentally sound transport. Over the next 30 years, the project will cut 67 million tons of CO2 emissions (World Bank Group, 2023, <https://www.worldbank.org/en/topic/transport/brief/railways>). The following section will cover information about the definition of terms in-depth.

9.2 Definition of terms

Rail transport.¹⁵² According to Stainton (2023) Rail transport refers to any means of transferring passengers and cargo on or in wheeled vehicles running on rails, which are located on tracks. Rail vehicles are guided by the tracks on which they run (Stainton, 2023, <https://tourismteacher.com/types-of-rail-transport/>).¹⁵³ “In addition the definition of the term ‘world’ refers to everything that we see and touch from the North, South East or West in all the countries” (Rudolph Muteswa, 2021:139 cited in his famous book title: ‘The Magnificence of Respecting Human Rights, Democracy & Freedoms in a Country & Organizations’). The following section will cover information about the different types of rail transport in-depth.

9.3 Different types of rail transport

Historically trains have been providing transportation to people for many years and they played a critical role during the industrial revolution due to their ability to carry bulk goods between towns, cities and countries. ¹⁵⁴“Rail transport has been around since ancient Greek times, in the 6th Century BC. Rail transport is ever-evolving, and accounts for a large percentage of ground transportation” (Stainton, 2023, <https://tourismteacher.com/types-of-rail-transport/>). The different types of rail transport will be discussed as follows:

9.3.1 ¹⁵⁵“Urban rail transport. Urban rail transport is one of the overarching types of rail transport – e.g, it can be separated into other various types of rail transport, which are all laid out below in terms of specifics. Urban rail transport is the term used for different types of local rail systems which provide a passenger service in and around urban or suburban areas. Urban rail transport includes trams, rapid transport trains, monorails, light rail, cable cars, funiculars and commuter rail.

9.3.2 Rapid transit. Rapid transit trains are high-capacity public transport trains. Generally known as the metro, the subway, the underground, the tube or similar, they are electric railways which run in and through areas which cannot be accessed by pedestrians.

9.3.3 High-speed railways. HSRs (high-speed railways) run at a significantly faster speed than other types of rail transport. HSRs use an integrated system of rolling stock and designated tracks; there is no single speed standard that exists worldwide but if a train can travel faster than 160mph it is considered to be an HSR.

9.3.4 Commuter rail. Commuter rail is a similar system to rapid transit rail. Commuter rail encompasses rail transport services within metropolitan areas, connecting commuters from towns and suburbs to cities for work purposes, first and foremost. They are considered heavy rail, and use electric or diesel trains. British commuter rail services share tracks with other passenger trains and freight trains too.

9.3.5 Monorail. A monorail is a type of railway where the track has a singular beam or rail. While the name does refer to the type of track, colloquially ‘monorail’ is used to refer to elevated rail vehicles.

9.3.6 Elevated railways. Similarly to a monorail, elevated railways are a type of rail transport that run above ground level rather than at or below ground level. Elevated railways are used predominantly in urban areas to avoid congestion and the need for level crossings.

9.3.7 Trams and streetcars. A tram is a rail vehicle that runs on tramway tracks along public urban streets. Trams have been referred to as ‘electric street railways’ in the past, which sums it up well. They are short and light in comparison to main line or rapid transit trains; trams mostly use electric power from overhead lines, which means they are not as bad for the environment as cars or buses which are often in the same road areas. Trams are also what we might call ‘light rail’. In many European cities, such as Prague and Vienna, trams are a vital way of travelling around the main areas. In places like San Francisco, the cable car system (the oldest in the world) is a tram network that is popular with tourists.

9.3.8 Funiculars. A funicular is one of the most interesting types of rail transport. Funiculars are powered by cable traction, and designed specifically for steep inclines. There are two counterbalanced passenger cars which move in concert – as one goes up, the other comes back down. Funiculars are mostly tourist attractions now, offering a fun way to see new scenery when visiting a particular area, though some are used for commuting and general transport”””¹⁵⁶ (Stainton, 2023, <https://tourismteacher.com/types-of-rail-transport/>). The following section will cover information about typical examples of leading global trains of various countries in-depth.

9.4 Examples of leading global trains from the United States of America & the Republic of Austria

One of the most ancient modes of transport in the world is railway transport. Interestingly, railway transport has successfully managed to evolve overtime to become a fun, luxurious, highly innovative and technology oriented mode of transport that offers safe and high quality customer experience to its passengers. Various organizations located in different parts of the world are now offering different types of railway transport services to passengers or travelers (including tourists or international visitors). A typical good example of one of the leading global train organizations include the following:

9.4.1 United States of America – ('Amtrak')

Today trains have become one of the most reliable, fun, eco-friendly and affordable ways to move from one point to another in various countries. In general there are many companies that operate trains in the United States of America which are either private-owned or public-owned. One of the most popular train company based in the United States of America that will be discussed in this section is called 'Amtrak'.¹⁵⁷“Today & Tomorrow. Amtrak has nearly 50 years of rich American history, and we're proud of the efforts we've put into intercity passenger rail service. Since beginning operations in 1971, we've worked ceaselessly to transform a classic form of transportation, preserving those aspects of train travel that are timeless, while modernizing those that are ripe for it. In fiscal year 2019, Amtrak carried more than 32 million customers — proving that America's longstanding love of travel still embraces our classic and storied mode of transportation in its modern form. Preserving the Train — and Improving It! When Amtrak took over intercity passenger service in 1971, the infant company faced a formidable set of challenges: equipment was aging and hard-run, ridership had declined for years, and nobody knew how a tiny band of dedicated men and women could ever reinvent a nationwide network knitted together from 20 disparate services and railroads. It wasn't easy — but we did it. Amtrak started by sorting out its fleet, and making the bold decision to renew salvageable equipment with new electric heat and lighting systems, while ordering a whole new fleet of single-level cars capable of high-speed service, and daring bi-level cars that would provide roomy and comfortable accommodation on western routes. In 1976, Amtrak took over most of the badly deteriorated lines between Washington, New York and Boston from the bankrupt Penn Central Railroad. To many, this was a liability, but we saw the potential inherent in a direct route that linked the population centers of the East Coast, and with a lot of hard work, we built it into a 125 m.p.h. railroad. In the 1990s, Amtrak began its program to bring high-speed rail to America with Acela Express. We rebuilt parts of the Northeast Corridor (NEC) and improved the electric overhead power system so that all of our trains would be faster; and we partnered with Bombardier Transportation and Alstom to bring fast, comfortable high-speed service to the Northeast. Today, we're operating a national system that comprises long-distance, state-supported and Northeast Corridor services that connect communities, regions and modes of transportation across the country. We've partnered with 17 states through 20 agencies to provide train service around America, bringing faster and more frequent train service to destinations as varied as Chicago, Seattle, Los Angeles and St. Louis. Not Just a Storied Past — A Bright Future! We have made great strides in our nearly five decades in the railroad business. And as Amtrak grows, so does our capacity to meet national needs such as stimulating and supporting local and regional economies; contributing to national emergency response, congestion mitigation and emissions reduction; and reducing our nation's reliance on foreign oil. We're not just a mode with a past — we have a bright future and an important present. Even in regions where we're not able to provide the twice-hourly service that's the hallmark of our NEC, we provide many ¹⁵⁸Americans with an affordable and accessible intercity transportation option. Amtrak serves more than 500 communities nationwide, more than 150 of them rural; more than half of our destinations are served exclusively by our 15 national network routes. We are determined to continue to build the equipment, infrastructure and organization needed to sustain our growing ridership and will do so by investing in critical projects that will enhance the passenger experience for years to come. We look forward to ensuring Amtrak continues to play an important role in the national transportation network for the next 50 years and beyond by

The scope of the project includes four Superliner car types: Coaches, Sleeping Cars, Dining Cars and Sightseer Lounges. Amtrak has invested $28 million in this refresh, which extends the useful life of passenger cars that were delivered in the 1980s and 1990s. As of summer 2023, over 100 Superliner cars have been refreshed and are now in revenue service” (Amtrak, 2023, <https://media.amtrak.com/2023/11/image-gallery-long-distance-service-improvements/>). The following section will cover information about the Republic of Austria trains in-depth.

9.4.2 Republic of Austria – (‘Austria Federal Railways - ÖBB’ which owns popular trains called ‘Railjet’ and ‘Nightjet’)

In Austria the railway sector is one of the most developed in Europe and the main focus of train operators across Europe is offering passengers a memorable experience in an efficient, innovative, multicultural, competitive and profitable manner. This section will discuss Austria’s most popular railway corporate brand called ‘Austrian Federal Railways’ (ÖBB) which owns popular trains called ÖBB Railjet (RJ, RJX) and Nightjet (NJ).¹⁶¹ According to ÖBB (2024) The ÖBB Nightjet - the night train operated by the Austrian Federal Railway ÖBB - allows you to travel comfortably overnight to many destinations throughout Europe on any day. For as little as € 29,90*, the ÖBB Nightjet takes you to Austria, Italy and Switzerland (ÖBB, 2024, <https://www.nightjet.com/en/angebote>). punctual railway operators in Europe, with a punctuality of around 97 per cent in passenger transport. With over EUR 3 billion invested annually in railway infrastructure, ÖBB is building the railway system of tomorrow. Across the Group, almost 42,000 bus and rail employees and an additional 2,000 apprentices ensure that up to 1.3 million passengers and around 1,300 freight trains arrive safely at their destinations every day” (ÖBB, 2024, <https://presse.oebb.at/en/>). The following section will cover information about the conclusion of this chapter in-depth.

9.5 Conclusion

Trains have become one of the most preferred form of transport to use every day to commute in most towns, cities and or countries. It can be concluded that the economic and societal development of a country is generally interrelated with the increasing popularity of trains amongst commuters from different geographical locations of a country. The current pace of technological advancement in the global railway sector is quite extensive while on the other hand the current manufacturing of trains is placing more emphasis towards reliable, affordable and eco-friendly production processes and finished products (trains). Railway tourism has blossomed in many countries due to the fact that some of the modern structural designs of trains are enabling train operators to offer bedroom accommodation, restaurant, bathroom, lounge, bar, conference meeting rooms, café, double deck large window views and many other customer memorable experiences. The advantage of railway tourism is that it allows passengers or tourists to have the opportunity to travel to other places where there are fun tourist attraction sites. It can be concluded that railway tourism is mostly popular in developed nations and one of the key reasons behind this general fact is that in developed nations the railway networks (train stations or railway tracks) adopted modern technology that can easily accommodate eco-smart high speed trains. While on the other hand in poor developing nations the railway networks are under developed or in a poor state of condition therefore this makes railway tourism to be considered as unattractive to investors. It can be concluded that some of the leading global financial institutions are currently offering adequate financial resources to developing nations in order to help them reconstruct or implement new modern technology railway networks that will help them transport both passengers and freight in an affordable, reliable and eco-smart manner.
